AS WE SEE IT

By GEORGE JACKSON

According to student body budget committee reports, estimated income for next year will be 30 per cent less than estimated expenditures. This means that somewhere along the line requests for funds for next year will be drastically cut before the final budgets are drawn up.

This drop in income has been estimated as a result of a possible drop in enrollment next year. The principle source of income that would be hit as a result of a drop would be student body fees, although other items would be affected.

The estimated expenditures were higher mainly because of the probable price raises which will take place between now and next fall. In order to meet this rise the persons in charge of estimating expenditures were forced to either cut the amount of purchases or set their desired funds at a high point.

It is now up to the budget committee to set the final figures for expenditures for next year. It is true that this task will mean not granting as much money to all the requests, but it is evident the only way to solve the situation is for an arbitrary body to act upon requests and make the final decisions.

Along the same lines as next year's budgets, but an immediate problem, is the large number of students who have not settled their promissory notes to the student body. Much of the money these notes represent is being counted upon for this year's income.

When the notes were signed, it was assumed that the funds would be available shortly for use by various athletic teams, publications, and other activities. These unpaid notes mean that the money is not available for the activities which had been planned on funds from this source of income.

Happi Bruno Today's Assembly Performer

Happi Bruno, the noted ventriloquist, will appear in the men's gym today at 11 o'clock. His act will include dummies, puppets, and audience participation stunts.

Bruno has appeared at such famous places as the Capital Theater in New York City and the Palace Hotel in San Francisco.

During his performance Bruno explains how anyone can become a ventriloquist with practice and patience. He proves to the audience that ventriloquists are not born but that the art is learned. Also he will demonstrate near and far ventriloquism.

"Medea" Plays Here Two More Nights

Tense Scene in Greek Tragedy

Phyllis Williams, Medea, is shown pleading with Tom Rogers, Creon, King of Corinth, not to banish her and her children from the city. Creon is the father of Creusa, who Medea's husband has married after denouncing Medea. The Hartnell Players' production will be given tonight and tomorrow at 8:15.

Seniors, Hartnell Students See First Performance of Tragedy

By CARLA ADAMS

Yesterday afternoon, the Hartnell Players successfully gave the first presentation of their current play, "Medea." The play will run two more nights, tonight and Saturday, the curtain rising promptly at 8:15 in the College Little Theater.

Miss Phyllis Williams, in the title role of Medea, gave a memorable performance. With grace and ease of movement, speech and dramatic interpretation, Miss Williams' characterization was magnificent and gave distinction to an already imposing production.

Lighting for the production was another of the outstanding events in "Medea." Special results were achieved only through hard and consistent work on the part of the stage crew, Don Schrump and William Nye. The effects were obtained by a system new to the Hartnell stage, localized lighting. This plan highlights certain parts of the acting area, while keeping other areas in near-darkness. The new spotlights recently installed make these effects possible.

"Medea" tells the story of how a wild, barbaric woman, brought to a modern civilization, uses her knowledge of dark art to revenge the wrongs done her. Jason, Medea's husband, has deserted her and her two sons to marry Creusa, the daughter of Creon, ruler of Corinth, and Medea goes mad.

Medea, in her retaliation, kills her two sons, Creusa, and Creon, leaving Jason almost insane with grief. Jason is played by William Nye.

Other cast members are: Helen Wolber, the Nurse; Ralph Rowland, the Tutor; Craig and Ronnie Ulrici, the Children; Jackie Day, First Woman of Corinth; Farrell Moore, Second Woman of Corinth; Tom Rogers, Creon; Don Schrump, Ægeus; Stan Lovett, Jason's Slave; and Carla Adams, Attendant to Medea.

Two Students Interview Author Of "Medea" at His Carmel Home

Tom Rogers and Helen Wolber journeyed to the Carmel home of Mr. Robinson Jeffers for an interview Wednesday, April 4.

Mr. Jeffers is the author of the current Hartnell Players' production, "Medea."

Helen Wolber telephoned Mr. Jeffers at his home on Wednesday morning and asked him for an appointment for an interview. Mr. Jeffers said that he would be home all afternoon and would like them to come right over.

Helen and Tom arrived at Tor House about 4 that afternoon and chatted with Mr. Jeffers for about 45 minutes. The conversation was mostly about the theater, about which, incidentally, Mr. Jeffers said he knows very little. Tom described Mr. Jeffers as a very modest, retiring man who dislikes talking about himself or his work.

It seems that Mr. Jeffers merely writes a play, then turns it over to the producers for all the staging, casting, etc. Mr. Jeffers has very little interest in and almost no knowledge of the technical details of producing a play.

Mr. Jeffers' new play, "Tower Beyond Tragedy," was written especially for Judith Anderson, as was "Medea," in the Broadway production of which Miss Anderson had the starring role.

Tom and Helen were much impressed by the architecture of Mr. Jeffers' home, which is very old-world in its style and is constructed of stone. According to Tom, modern conveniences have been only lately installed and the whole effect is very quaint and picturesque.

At the end of the interview, Mr. Jeffers autographed Tom's and Helen's playbooks and thanked them for coming. If you want proof of the above story, just ask either Tom or Helen. They will be glad to show you his autograph on their playbooks.

Instructions For Draft Tests Released Here

Instructions for college students planning to take the selective service system tests have been released by that department recently, said President John Lemos. The tests will be given on May 26, June 16, and June 30 of this year at Hartnell College, the examination center for this area, known officially as Center 119.

Students who plan to take the test for draft deferments should make application to their local draft boards as soon as possible. To apply, a student should obtain a postcard application from any draft board, fill it out and return it.

FORMS AVAILABLE

Application forms for the deferment examinations are now available at local draft boards. Draft-age students are urged to pick up the applications now.

Tickets of admission will be issued to applicants as soon as possible, and the student will be assigned to his testing date by the board. Only persons with the proper ticket of admission will be allowed to take the deferment test.

Strict regulations will govern the taking of the test. Students will be fingerprinted; all notes will be banned; and any person found violating the regulations will be reported to his local board and his test disallowed.

Following are the requirements for taking the draft deferment test: the person must be a registrant requesting deferment as a student; must be under 26 years of age; must be successfully pursuing a course in a college which will lead to a degree; and must have not taken the test previously.

Dr. Borough And Mr. Johnston To Attend Meeting

Dr. B. L. Borough and Mr. Robert Johnston of the Hartnell College faculty will attend the Northern California Regional Political Science Association Conference at Stanford University tomorrow.

The conference will be an all-day affair, beginning at 9:30 o'clock and probably ending shortly after 5 o'clock. This is the fourth annual conference of this group, and the chief topic of discussion included on the day's agenda for the political science instructors is "Sources of International Friction."

New Administration Offices Open Monday; Women May Get Gym Back

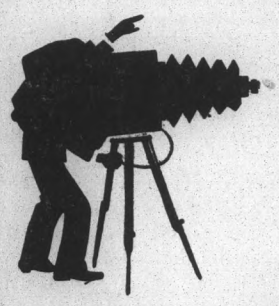

Mr. Hugh Eldridge, assistant superintendent of schools, has announced that the public schools' administration will move to its new offices next Monday, April 16. All furniture and office equipment will be moved to the new building during the week end so that everything will be in readiness for the office staff to move in Monday.

The administration's new offices are located across the street, opposite the parking space, from the present location. There will be an office for each superintendent and larger and more adequate space for the office staff in the new location.

What is to be done with the space to be vacated by the administration in its present offices in a section of the Hartnell gym is undecided. Miss June Handley, dean of women, has expressed a desire to convert the space into a women's gymnasium if the present partitions are taken out when the administration vacates the building. As yet, no announcement regarding this has been published by the administration offices.

Botany Class Takes Field Trip

Group Studies Wild Flower Life Throughout Carmel Valley Area

By JACK ALBERT

The study of wild flower life was the main objective of the botany class expedition into the Carmel Valley last Monday. The group of 12 botany students and Mr. Wilbert Robinson, faculty adviser, termed the field trip very edifying and really interesting.

One of the highlights of the naturalists' expedition was a visit to the Frances Simes Hastings Natural History Reservation in the Santa Lucia Mountains. Dr. Jean Linsdale, University of California research associate in charge of the reservation, displayed various collections of animal and plant life, fully representing all types of habitat in that area.

The Museum of Vertebrate Zoology, University of California, manages the reservation with the purpose of preserving an area in California's coastal region where native plants and animals may live undisturbed by human use of the land. It also provides for a continuous study of vertebrate animals, especially their numbers and relationships to their surroundings, as these relationships change in the annual cycle and from year to year.

Mr. Robinson explained that when the reservation was first established that the field station was abundant with several varieties of squirrels, inside of one year all the squirrels were living outside the reservation fence and a variety of white field mice that had been observed in the unprotected area had moved into the reservation.

The Hartnell students were particularly interested in the preserved botanical materials consisting of around 1,000 mounted herbarium specimens of close to 450 species of flowering plants that are found in this region. Also of interest were collections of mosses and other lower plants that are being identified by the University of California graduates.

At Los Laureles the group stopped to observe several species of desert plants dominant in that area. Some of the students spent part of their time in Los Laureles studying numerous fossils.

Sycamore Flats in Carmel Valley was the luncheon site for the botanical expedition. The students discussed their observations and discoveries with Mr. Robinson at lunch. Donald Jacop, one of the expeditioners, found the field trip very interesting and most educational. This was the general expression from all of the group, which included one girl, Judy Beeck..

The students left Sycamore Flats in two station wagons, returning to the campus via Soledad.

La Reatas On Sale Now

The 1951 La Reata will be on sale all week in the main hall and in Room 9. Editor Andy Ausonio says that the pledge cards are going fast so those students who wish copies should buy theirs immediately.

The total cost of the book is $2.50. A pledge card may be purchased for $1, the balance to be paid when the book is delivered.

This year's annual contains 112 pages and includes photographs of 1951 graduates, sports events, clubs, and features. Dividing the various sections are drawings by Bunky Millsap.

The cover will be shown to students at a later date.

Heraldry Display In Library All During Next Week

During the next week, the Hartnell library will display a valuable hand-drawn collection of the personal ensigns of European and Asiatic royalty. Over a period of several years, Mr. Val Clement, history instructor at Pacific Grove high school and one of the world's few heraldry experts, has artistically reproduced in miniature the exact replicas of more than 60 modern individual royal standards.

This task has by no means been easy, for many dukes or kings are "in retirement" and their standards are difficult to locate. However, by several diverse methods, even to the extent of having enlarged a photograph 100 times to obtain the detail of a single shield, Mr. Clement has succeeded in enhancing his collection with copies of several rare and extremely hard-to-get flags.

It is not unusual to find a monarch displaying more than one flag; he may have his regular land standard, and a separate design for times when he is at sea or in the air. Even President Truman has a personal banner which accompanies him wherever he goes. If the President is not at home, his flag does not fly from the White House.

Heraldry dates back to ancient Greek and Roman times; However, next week's display will include only flags in current use. Due to the constant change in rulers and designs, Mr. Clement has assigned himself to a difficult task in keeping his collection up to date — even down to the most minute variation of a single line.

Miss Wiens Announces Hour Change

Library hours were changed during the week for the convenience of students, said Miss Luella Wiens, librarian, this week. The change is a slight one of only 10 minutes in the morning and afternoon. From now on, the library will open at 7:50 a.m. and close at 4:50 p.m.

Miss Wiens also called attention to the display of pamphlets which is kept permanently on a stand in the southeast corner of the library. These pamphlets are kept up to date, and frequently changed when they became outdated.

Band Plays For Visiting Seniors

Serenading the student body yesterday noon was the Hartnell College Band, in a concert held in the Quad. Visiting senior musicians joined with the Hartnell band in the concert. The program consisted of the following selections: "The New York World Fair March," by Schasberger; "The Showboat Selections," by Kern; "Promenade," by Anderson; "Basses on a Rampage," by Huffrins; "Brigadoon Selections," by Loewe; "The Host of Youth Grand march," by Guestzel; "Ode to Freedom," Grofe; and "The Liberty Bell March," by Souza.

CHOIR FESTIVAL

Stanford University has been chosen as the site of the Northern California Junior College Vocal Festival, according to Mr. Vahé Aslanian, director of the Hartnell College choir.

The choir will be participating in the event, singing several numbers: "Now Thank We All Our God," Cruger; "Lacrymosa," Mozart; and "Go Lovely Rose," Thiman. Miss Beverly Silva will be featured soloist.

Two Faculty Members At Asilomar Meet

Two Hartnell College faculty members, Mr. Karl Bengston and Mr. Stuart Dufour, will be attending the State Council of Education of the California Teachers' Association today and tomorrow. The meeting will be held at Asilomar.

Mr. Bengston is secretary of the Central Coast section of the association while Mr. Dufour is representative from the central coast counties.

JUST COMMENTING

By CARLA ADAMS

Helen Wolber chose a flattering tan wool jersey for her all-purpose dress. The color and style fit into every kind of school and social activity. The most interesting design is the tucked "V" yoke. Other marks are the three-quarter length sleeves, the turndown collar, and the flare skirt. Helen wears the dress for sport, smartly belted, accented by a small colorful silk scarf at the neckline.

Bold plaids are all the style, and one of the first to take up said style is Esther Cosmos. Esther's dress is maroon and blue gingham. Demure panels of inserted shirring give detail to the already well-styled dress. Esther has added tiny maroon buttons to highlight the color of the plaid.

Diane Tripp's brown chambray dress has six white daisies marching horizontally across the yoke, which, incidentally, has hidden pockets. Other features are the short sleeves and unpressed pleats.

Jean Urmson certainly dazzles you when she is all dressed up in her new suit. The jacket is navy and white check, belted, with a standup collar and pushup sleeves. The skirt is slim, made of navy gabardine. Under the suit is worn a soft white blouse with lace inserts. Top off the ensemble with navy shoes and purse, and you have the smartest outfit seen in a long time.

Nancy Bardin again deserves notice with a pretty pink plaid dress the Easter Bunny left in her clothes closet. The dress is tailored, with unpressed pleats and three-quarter length sleeves.

The yellow print percale dress worn by Kathleen Jennings has many interesting design details: slope shoulders going to cuffed batwing short sleeves, a plunging neckline, dummy pockets, and a flared skirt.

Beverly Silva is one of those smart girls who has learned how much easier and more economical it is to make her own clothes. Bev points with pride to her pink and grey small-checked wool dress, made in sewing class. The dress features a plunging neckline, a stand-up collar, and a pleated, softly flared skirt.

On a recent trip to San Francisco I was impressed by the city-wide showing of the crisp, new, frosted cottons. A word to the wise Hartnellite is sufficient: these new cottons are colorful, easy on the eye, and practical, too. I'll race you to the nearest store!

WHERE'S CHARLIE? WHERE'S MATHERS? Marge Mathers and family went to San Francisco to see the well-known Ray Bolger production last Friday night. Through a miscalculation in seat prices the Mathers family peered at Bolger from the last row of the highest balcony. Says Ralph Rowland, "It's like watching television on a four-inch screen, isn't it?"

I always have a box, of course. I sit on it.

SEACLIFF BEACH was the scene of a beach party Sunday. The combined religious organizations from Hartnell met there for a day of swimming, picnicking, and softball. In spite of a most unusual fog, everything, including swimming by a few brave souls, came off as planned.

While Miss Perry, chaperon for the affair, wasn't roasting hotdogs and stoking her fire she was cheering on the baseball-playing partygoers.

SOME PEOPLE ARE NEVER SATISFIED: At the Stanford Frosh track meet last week end Ray Dyer ran the mile in a little more than his usual time. He felt that he could run faster so he asked the coach if he couldn't run the two-mile event. He ran, and won, the two-mile event also. So two blue ribbons and appropriate colored orchids to Ray Dyer.

Intercollegiate Air Meet Termed Successful

It was a bright sunny morning last Sunday as three planes wearing college crests circled the Salinas airport taking their bearings on a large painted target on one of the airport runways.

"That's about right . . . Drop!" Three two-pound flour-filled bombs dropped and burst, scoring three points for Ronald C. Millard of the Hartnell Flying Club to win second place for bomb dropping in the Salinas air meet. Brown and Liston of the University of California Flying Club scored five points for Brown and one for Liston to take first and third place.

"Keep that wing low till you touch down. Get ready, bub, here comes the ground," was the thought fleeting through each pilot's mind as he made his try at power wheel landings in the air meet. California's Brown scored five points with two San Joseans touching first on the upwind wheel, then listening for the warning squeal, only to come in second and third.

Glass Backboards May Be Gone If Balance Not Paid

Hartnell's new glass backboards may not be available for the Panther cagers next season as a result of action taken by the student commission last Monday. The group turned thumbs down on a request by the college district for payment of $139 on the boards.

When the district board made the purchase of the new equipment last winter, the price for the classy glass boards was misquoted by the firm selling the equipment. When the district received the bill, they refused to pay the difference of $139 in the price.

The matter was given to the commission on the grounds that unless the bill be paid by the student body, the boards would go. The boards would go, then, the commission decided.

Gold captains' awards will not be purchased by student funds this year, it was decided at the meeting. Basis for the decision was a request by Coach Ed Adams for a gold award for Captain Fred Willson of this season's basketball team.

Toney-West Wed During Aptos Rites

Joyce Toney and Leon West exchanged vows at the Aptos Community Church on Palm Sunday. The Rev. C. E. Miller performed the ceremony.

Mrs. West is a freshman education major and her husband is a second year music major.

Hartnell students taking part in the ceremony were: Darlene Vaughn, bridesmaid; Mervin Ferreira and Tom Welch, ushers; and Roger Lanning, best man.

The newly wedded couple are making their home in Aptos. The couple went to Yosemite National Park for a honeymoon.

The bride attended Santa Cruz high school and the groom attended Watsonville high.

Terry Bertolli, 1950 Alumna, Marriage Told

Teresa Bertolli, Hartnell alumna, and George Darling were married Sunday, March 31, at the First Presbyterian Church in Santa Cruz. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Erwin Bollinger. Her matron of honor was Mrs. Joe Castro, the former Ada Kasje, also of Hartnell College.

After a wedding trip to Southern California the couple returned to Santa Cruz to make their home at 113 Lemos Street.

George is a graduate of Santa Cruz high school and is now employed by the Yellow Cab Company. He served in the air force.

While at Hartnell Teresa was on the advertising staff of The Panther Sentinel.

Baseball Rematch With Soledad Prison Tomorrow

Tomorrow the Hartnell diamondmen travel to Soledad for a second encounter with the Soledad Medium Security Prison nine. In the March 31 meeting of the two teams the Panthers suffered a 10-5 defeat at the hands of the prison team.

Coach Jess Regli reports that he is still uncertain about his moundsman for tomorrow's encounter, but it will probably be Wayne Crook leading off.

Coach Regli says that while his boys still need much more experience and improvement, they are improving rapidly. He reports that the team's spirits are riding high, and he feels that they will round into strong contention form by the latter part of the season.

Hitting seems to be one of the biggest headaches of the Hartnell team with their team average sagging at .227. Among the big-stick men on the team are Bob Steinbach with .364, John Piini with .400, and Dale Swire with .316.

Outstanding in his times at the plate has been Pitcher Wayne Crook who has been successful in swatting out four bingles in five trips to the plate. Errors have been much too abundant with the team, the total standing at 26.

Noon Softball Gets Under Way

Hartnell's noon league athletes are revamping their athletic prowess to meet the new demands placed on them by the inauguration of softball season this week.

Names of the teams are the Gassers, Sluggers, Vendettas, Wheaties, Science, and Clippers.

Regular softball rules will be enforced in the league play. In order to meet the time limit imposed by 1 o'clock classes, no inning will start after 12:45.

Baseballers Lose Double-Header

A gravel-pit ball field and home-town officials combined their dubious talents with the Menlo baseball team to bring about a double defeat for the Hartnell Panthers. First game score was 14-3 and second game was 6-3.

Coach Jess Regli was much impressed with the improvement of the Panther infield play; they committed but one error in the twin bill. The other two errors were charged to the outfield.

Wayne Crook started the first game for the Panthers but when his control wavered in the second inning he was replaced by Bob Jefferson. The Menlo Oaks built up an eight-run lead before the Harts could push their first two across in the seventh inning. All four of the Hartnell runs in the first contest were driven in by John Miggins.

In the second game the Panthers took an early 1-0 lead but dropped behind when the Oaks scored three times. In the fifth inning the Harts knotted the count again only to lose out in the final two stanzas.

Cindermen Home Tomorrow Meet Menlo at 11 A.M.

In their first home appearance the Hartnell cindermen will meet Menlo in a dual event at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. The meet will be held on the Hartnell track at the rear of the school. It will be the first dual meet for the local club and the first one against a league opponent.

Menlo and Hartnell were able to look each other over last week when the two teams vied in the five-way meet at Stanford. Hartnell captured second place at the Stanford meet and figures to come out on top against Menlo tomorrow.

Coach Ed Adams, when asked if his team would win, replied that he thought so, and if not that they could not be accused of not trying. Menlo has strength in several of the dashes, but Hartnell should nearly make a clean sweep of the field events.

Outstanding in his performances in the 220, the 440, and in the relay is Sherman Miller of the Menlo squad. Miller led the high school world in these events last year and is continuing his good work this year. Coach Adams, who has seen our own Hal Davis run in days gone by, proclaims Miller as one of the best he has ever seen.

Big question on the local team is whether Jim Tannahill's spiked hand will be healed enough to allow him to compete in his usual number of events. Tannahill spiked the web of his hand while broad-jumping at Stanford last week, and may still be hindered in the pole vault.

Little Ray Dyer who proved his worth to the Hartnell squad last week by winning the mile and two-mile in the five-way meet will be on deck to run the long ones again this week. Adams reports that he is changing Runner Bud Chase from the two-mile to the 880-yard dash, and perhaps he will enter the two-mile in addition at the end of the meet.

Other points should be brought in from the field events by Tannahill, Bob Ballard, Keith McIntosh, John Dobbel, Ed Kruljac, Dick Leffingwell, and Steve LaVelle.

In the races Hartnell is counting on points from Dyer, Chase, Don Smith, Mitts Hashimoto, LaVelle, and Bill Temple.

Harts Second In 5-Way at Stanford

Hartnell's cindermen copped a surprise second place in a five-way meet at Stanford Saturday on the basis of three first places, two of them by Ray Dyer, their outstanding distance man.

Stanford Frosh team won the meet easily with 73 points; Hartnell scored 31½; Menlo, 26; Stockton, 14; and Monterey, 6½.

Jim Tannahill copped the high jump for the other Panther first place.

Outstanding man of the meet, in the opinion of Ed Adams, Hartnell coach, was Sherman Miller, a Menlo speedburner. At Stanford the former Napa high school flash scored victories in the 440 and 220 and pulled a faltering Menlo relay team into second place with his fine anchor lap. Local track fans will get a look at Miller this Saturday when Hartnell hosts Menlo for a dual meet.

Also placing for the Panthers were Don Smith in the 100 and low hurdles; Bud Chase in the two-mile; Steve LaVelle and Bill Temple in the high hurdles; John Dobbel in the shot; Tannahill in the pole vault; Ballard and McIntosh in the high jump, and Dobbel again in the discus.

Coach Adams was well pleased with his charges' improvement over their previous performances and expects good results from the squad before the year is over.

Only casualty of the meet was Jim Tannahill who spiked himself in the hand while competing in the broadjump. He is expected to be all right for the meet tomorrow.

Ray Dyer showed himself to be a fine team man by sacrificing what could have been a good time in the mile to conserve himself for the two-mile event, which he surprised everyone by winning.

The Harts still miss the depth they need to win the thirds and fourths that make the difference between first and second place.

Tennis Team Tops Menlo 3-2

Coach Darwin Peavy's netmen scored their first conference victory of the season when they downed the Menlo Oaks last Saturday, 4-3.

The Panthers drew first blood when Jerry Skillicorn blasted H. Gunderson, 6-2, 6-0. Menlo came back to get two points when Menlo Men Dresel and Saleverria downed Hartnell's Ray Welch and Ray Houlihan, 8-6, 6-3, and 6-8, 6-2, 6-1. In the two remaining singles matches Lew Patterson and Tom Grant, both of Hartnell, defeated Shea and Paul, 6-2, 6-1 and 8-6, 6-4. At the end of the singles matches the Panthers led in the team score, three to two.

But again Menlo came back strong, and in the first doubles match Shea and Paul teamed up to defeat Hartnell's Patterson and Welch, 6-1, 6-4. With the team scores even at three apiece Grant and Skillicorn teamed to defeat Dresel and Gunderson, 6-1, 6-2, and thus put the Panthers in the conference win column.

Regli Announces Gym Class Results

Coach Jess Regli announced this week the winners of intraclass competition in his basketball and volleyball gym classes.

Winning team in the basketball class was the team headed by Warren Montagne. Montagne's squad garnered 26 points on a basis of two points for a win, one for a tie, and none for a loss. This total was enough to edge out Ed Copley's team which totaled 23.

The volleyball tournament was captured by Diosdado Abreu's team with 23 points, judged on the same basis as in the basketball tournament.

Bill Plageman's team was second with 18 points and John Wong's team was in the third spot with 13.

Golfers Lose

Hartnell golfers lost their first N.C.J.C.C. golf match to Menlo J.C. last Friday at Menlo Park when they came out on the short end of a 9½-to-5½ score. Hartnell was handed their defeat when the three bottom members on the squad came through with a total of 78 and thus scored three points for the locals. Bob Ballard, number two man, was low scorer for the Salinas team with a total of 77, but was held to 2½ points.
